Comments: I am generally for the rule. I have a private pilots license and I am a current ASC BFI. I intend to obtain an instructor rating for SP. My comment is: <<The FAA intends to grandfather "BFI's" into the sport pilot program--why not grandfather the maintenance experience as well? I beleive they, (current BFI's) should be able to take a written and practical test and obtain at least an inspection/repairman certificate without necessarily attending a class.>> I was a crew cheif (43151) in the Air Force and I have had extensive aircraft maintenance training. Thank you.
